

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A version for each of a plurality of object files in a computer program is verified by identifying a version of an object file of the plurality of object files in the computer program and comparing the identified version to an initial version. In response to the identified version being different than the initial version, an alert is generated.